American Boiler Manufacturers Association Announces Leadership Transition; Appoints Shaunica Jayson as Interim President & CEO

Vienna, VA – September 1, 2026 – The American Boiler Manufacturers Association (ABMA) today announced a leadership transition. After 12 years with the Association, Scott Lynch's tenure as President & CEO has concluded, and the Board of Directors has appointed Shaunica Jayson to serve as Interim President & CEO, effective immediately.

The Board of Directors acknowledged Lynch's years of service and his contributions to the evolution of ABMA and to the relationships built across the industry during his tenure. The Association wishes him well in his future endeavors.

Jayson brings deep institutional knowledge and stability to the interim role. A dedicated member of the ABMA team for more than nine years, she knows the Association, its members, and its staff well. Jayson has the full support of the Board and Executive Committee to lead the Association, support its members, and ensure continuity throughout this transition.

"Leadership transitions are part of the life of every organization. While change can bring uncertainty, it also reminds us of the strength of what has been built and of our ability to move forward together," said Nancy Simoneau, Chair of the ABMA Board of Directors. "ABMA exists first and foremost to serve its members, and our strength comes from their expertise, commitment, and generosity. We approach this next chapter with gratitude for the past, confidence in our team, and optimism for the future as we continue advancing our Association and our industry."

The ABMA Executive Committee is establishing a thoughtful process to identify the Association's next permanent President & CEO. The Board will approach this responsibility with a clear understanding of ABMA's responsibility to its members, the evolving needs of the industry, and the opportunities ahead.

Throughout this transition, the ABMA team and daily operations remain fully engaged in serving members and advancing the industry.
